MEDINA'S ANNUAL CARNIVAL good for Medina. When we remember the attractiveness of the Oriental nooks Wednesday night and the tooth some supplies that were right there for the buying, we are not so surprised at the remarkable financial result.

Great interest was manifested in the curio and photo exhibit at the public library. Perhaps the most interesting shown, was in the photographs of many of our public men taken when they were children, the visitor being supposed to determine the identity of the original from the facial delineations still present.

Courier's orchestra which played in the park both afternoon and evening and still later for the dance on the midway, was a feature of gala day that all appreciated. Their selections were well chosen and rendered musically.

Great anticipation, especially with the younger element, had been indulged in in the matter of fireworks display. Well, the display was made just as it had been advertised. The display was a credit to those who had it in charge. The set pieces were especially attractive.

Last, but in no way least, was the dance on the pave. To have missed seeing Sim Oatman cut the "pigeon wing" was to have missed the sight of your life. Old and young mingled in the maze. Joy was unconfined and there "was no sleep till morn." Also we might add that the "glowing hours" were chased "with flying feet." (There may be a few more quotations that could be appropriately used, but what is the use.)

SNIPER SEASON ON

Since the game season opened in September there have been several cases of violation reported, the most audacious one being Monday night when, it is said, two well-known young men of Medina village were apprehended while "bagging" snipe. A dozen or more companions had aroused all the latent hunting instincts in the two boys above referred to by tales of immense flocks of the little birds within a few miles from town and that at eventide they could be captured by holding a bag with a lantern alongside. So Monday night the party repaired to the outskirts of a thicket three or four miles out and took along the lanterns and bags. While the two victims with arched backs stood faithfully holding the bags the balance of the party unselfishly pushed into the woods to "drive the birds out." After standing in the cramped position for an hour or more, it finally dawned upon the boys that the balance of the party had gone home. The thoughts that passed through the minds of the victims probably will never be known. But we suggest that they better steer clear of the game warden.

HAVE YOU NO HEART?

Gentle reader, you who owe us for this paper you are reading (as well as for several of its ancestors), did you ever see an editor's pocketbook? No? Well, it is just as fallible and prone to emptiness as those of other common mortals. You see, the newspaper business hasn't yet been brought to that degree of perfection whereby it can be conducted without expense; and until that happy time shall have arrived we shall rest under the harrowing necessity of an occasional admonishment to you. In fact, this item may be regarded as admonishment No. 1. We have been patient—aye, in cases long suffering—knowing that your wallets were as lean as our own. But now, the harvest is past, the summer is gone, and lo, some of you have sold your hogs. When the big, round dollars begin to jingle in your breeches pockets, be reminded of that vacuum in the editorial purse.

STOCK COMPANY AT PRINCESS.

The Princess theater management is offering a special attraction for next week in the LaRoy Stock Co., who will play an engagement lasting the entire week in a repertoire of high class plays and feature vaudeville. The company carries special scenery and electrical effects and its own band and orchestra and come well recommended.

BROKE ARM AT FOOT BALL

Don Champ of the Oberlin foot ball team, who played Medina Wednesday, sustained a broken arm during the game. In trying to prevent a forward pass he leaped into the air and was given a shove by a local player while the former was off his feet. Champ is a heavy fellow and he fell with full force on his left shoulder, causing a fracture and dislocation. Dr. Stanley attended Champ.
